trayed Him—His Woes in Print.

SIR:—I beg to enclose for publication copies of correspondence which has arisen between the Attorney-General and myself, in connection with the subject of the letter which you were good enough to publish for me on the 8th inst.

The Attorney-General takes exception to my use in that letter of the word "permitted," but you will probably think with me that "permitted" was a very mild word to use; since it is clear that the reporter of the Star had been led to know that a "request," a "summons" had been issued, and he has apparently not been rebuked for saying it was a summons.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THEO. H. DAVIES.

MR. T. H. DAVIES, City.

DEAR SIR:—There is a matter of public interest about which I desire to speak to you.

And would ask, if convenient, you would call at my office tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) WILLIAM O. SMITH, Attorney-General.

[COPY.]

HONOLULU, H. I., Feb. 9th, 1894.

DEAR SIR:—I venture to draw your attention to a statement published in the Hawaiian Star on the 7th instant with regard to an interview to which you invited me on Monday last at your office.

You will no doubt remember that I cordially accepted your personal assurance that the request for an interview was intended as an act of courtesy on your part.

The offensive paragraph in the Star is therefore of more importance to you than even to myself, and I have waited two days in the expectation that you would communicate to me the regret, which you no doubt feel, at the infringement of the rules of courtesy towards a visitor, who relied simply on your personal assurance.

I need not remind you that the only witness of our interview was one of your own principal officials, who saw and heard everything, although he had no other share in the proceedings. This renders it unnecessary that I should look to any one but yourself as chief of the department, to represent in such a manner as you deem right, your disapproval of the violence which appears to have been done to the ordinary rules of official procedure.

May I add that I am sincere in the belief that the publication of the paragraph in question was as distasteful to yourself as it can have been to me. I am,

Faithfully yours,

(Signed) THEO. H. DAVIES.

HON. W. O. SMITH, Attorney-General.

MR. T. H. DAVIES, City.

SIR:—Your note of this day relative to a statement published in the Hawaiian Star of the 7th inst., with regard to our interview, is in hand.

In reply I would state that the reporter of the Star called upon me and asked for information upon the subject. I told him that
